Regional Economic Report (Summary) July 2022

Bank of Japan

This report summarizes the reports from all regional research divisions, mainly at the Bank's branches in Japan, and is based on data and other information gathered for the meeting of general managers of the Bank's branches held today. The English translation is based on the Japanese original.

I. Regional Economic Assessments (Overview)

According to assessments from regions across Japan, many of them reported that, although the effects of supply-side constraints had been observed, partly brought about by lockdowns in China, their respective economies had been picking up moderately with the impact of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) on private consumption waning.

Comparison of Previous and Current Assessments by Region

Region	Assessment in April 2022	Changes from the previous assessment ¹	Assessment in July 2022
Hokkaido	The economy has seen a pause in signs of a pick-up as downward pressure has been strong due to the impact of COVID-19.		The economy has been picking up moderately, although the impact of COVID-19 has been observed.
Tohoku	The economy has seen a pause in signs of a pick-up.		The economy has been picking up moderately.
Hokuriku	The economy has seen a pause in signs of a pick-up.		The economy has picked up as a trend.
Kanto-Koshinetsu	The economy has picked up as a trend, although it has been weak, mainly due to the impact of COVID-19.		The economy has picked up as a trend, with the impact of COVID-19 on private consumption waning, although the effects of supply-side constraints have intensified.
Tokai	The economy has seen a pause in signs of a pick-up.		The economy has seen a pause in signs of a pick-up.
Kinki	The economy has generally been on a pick-up trend, although the impact of COVID-19 on consumption has been observed.		The economy has been picking up on the whole, with the impact of COVID-19 on consumption waning, although the effects of such factors as lockdowns in China have remained.

Chugoku	The economy has been on a moderate pick-up trend, although downward pressure has continued to be exerted, particularly on services consumption.		The economy has been picking up moderately, although downward pressure has remained.
Shikoku	The economy has been picking up moderately, but effects of downward pressure stemming mainly from COVID-19 have been seen in some sectors.		The economy has been picking up moderately on the whole, although the effects of supply-side constraints have been observed in some sectors.
Kyushu-Okinawa	The economy has seen a slowdown in the pace of its pick-up.		The economy has been picking up moderately.
